

Spelling

Model Animation

First name _____

Last name _____

School _____

Date _____

Remember

- Your teacher will read the spelling passage to you.
- Your version of the passage has words missing. You should fill these in when your teacher tells you.

Number of words correct		Total mark awarded
0		0
1	2	1
3	4	2
5	6	3
7	8	4
9	10	5
11	12	6
13	14 15	7

Model Animation

Model animation, such as in the Wallace and Gromit films, originally developed _____ puppet shows.

These have _____ been popular, particularly in Europe.

The basic principles of model animation are the same as for drawn animation. Initial ideas and storyboards are drawn on paper, before the models are _____.

The models are made using different types of _____.

Plasticine or modelling clay can be moulded around a wire _____. Layers are added _____ the final shape is complete and every detail is shown. Adding _____ can make the models look more colourful.

Models' body parts do not have to be in _____ . They stand up better if they have big feet. These give the models extra _____ . The models are then placed in a set, _____ must relate to their size and height. When characters are in their houses, their heads should not touch the ceiling!

- 8
- 9
- 10

Early films using model animation were often silent because it was _____ to make models 'speak'. New techniques have overcome these _____ and talking models and voice-overs are now used. Animators sometimes talk to _____ in front of the mirror to watch how their faces change. The _____ is trying to make a model's face move in the same way! It is _____ how realistic Plasticine models have become.

- 11
- 12
- 13
- 14
- 15

Acknowledgement: photograph from Second Helpings by the British Film Institute.

© Qualifications and Curriculum Authority 2006
QCA, Years 7 and 8 Team, 83 Piccadilly, London W1J 8QA

Order ref: QCA/06/1912

270058